LABOR WILL DEMAND REPEAL OF SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW

A. F. O. L. to Formulate Plan at Meeting in Atlantic City

"USED AGAINST THEM"

Government Takes Role of Spectator in Industrial Situation

Atlantic City, Sept. 8.—Demand for the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust law on the ground that it is being used against labor, will be formulated during the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in this city, it was learned today. The meeting will open tomorrow.

It is understood that the members of the council, assisted by legal advice will draft the outline of a new measure which they will propose as a substitute for the Sherman anti-trust law.

Labor leaders contend that instead of being used to "dissipate illegal combinations of capital," the Sherman anti-trust act is invoked in the senate today by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah.

King proposed to transfer all assets of the war finance corporation now completing its post war functions, to the federal farm loan board for use in extending seasonal and long term credits to farmers or cattle raisers. A bill he introduced was before the senate finance committee today for consideration.

King declared his plan would eliminate food speculators, who obtain control of farmers crops at cheap prices at harvest markets. If his plan is adopted, he contended, farmers would be saved the necessity of selling their crops at harvest prices during a flood on the market and could obtain reasonable prices in the open market under the law of supply and demand.

The plan was said to meet the approval of the senate agricultural "bloc" and probably will be considered by that body at a special meeting. It was said the plan would enable farmers to obtain credits for their fall and winter planting and in time to be of benefit for the spring crops.

With the war finance corporation's $500,000,000 capital placed at the disposal of the farmers, farm associations or individuals could obtain loans from the government on receipts for crops stored in warehouses pending their disposal on the open market. Loans could also be obtained by cattle raisers on stock held on the pending sales in reasonable markets.

A decision was expected today or tomorrow in district supreme court on the application made by the brotherhood of electrical workers for a restraining order that will prevent federal officials from carrying out the terms of the drastic injunction secured in Chicago by Attorney General Daugherty.

The permanency of the Chicago injunction will be argued Monday. It is regarded as certain that its most drastic provisions will be modified by consent of the government.

Meanwhile the cabinet met today in usual session to discuss the usual subject—the industrial situation arising from the rail strike and coal shortage.

MILLERAND'S LIFE PLACED IN DANGER

SLAYS WIFE AND THEN KILLS SELF

Marion, O., Sept. 8.—Pretty Goldia Whitted, 30, wife of Fred Whitted, 60, wealthy Prospect township farmer is dead from being shot by her husband, who is also dead from a bullet fired into his brain by his own hand.

Jealousy and financial reverses are given as the cause of the murder and suicide, which occurred late Thursday near Prospect.

Whitted who came to Marion County 4 years ago married Mrs. Goldia Beckley, a local restaurant cashier, two years ago. Whitted had three children by a former marriage—two girls, fifteen and seventeen, and one son fourteen.

Authorities today established that 6 weeks ago Mr. Whitted threatened to leave her husband on account of his insane jealousy. At that time Whitted said he would kill her if she did leave him. He was the owner of a 160 acre farm and his farm house was one of the best in the country. His crops this year were practically a failure.

COTTON INDUSTRY TO BE INVESTIGATED

Washington, Sept. 8.—The senate today ordered a sweeping investigation of the cotton industry with special attention to alleged manipulation of the cotton market.

The probe will be conducted by the senate agriculture committee under a resolution passed without a record vote. Matters relating to the supply and demand and marketing of cotton will be investigated by the committee.

GERMAN GLIDERS MAKE WORLD RECORDS

Martens and Hentzer

Martens and Hentzer, students of the Hanover (Germany) Polytechnical School, hold the world's record for gliding in motorless airplanes, each having remained in the air for more than three hours. The photograph was made at their flight camp on top of the Wasserkuppe Mountain, 4,000 feet high from which they make their starts.

U. S. MARINES LANDED AT SMYRNA FROM AMERICAN WARSHIP; GREEKS MAKE STAND TURKISH CAVALRY OPERATING 20 MILES FROM ENEMY HEADQUARTERS.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Reports of U. S. Marines being landed at Smyrna, were unconfirmed today in naval quarters.

The navy department had no dispatches that would bear out the reports and officials expressed doubt that any American forces had landed. Only American destroyers have been ordered to Smyrna and these carry no marines.

London, Sept. 8.—Three Greek divisions have been annihilated by the Turks near Outchak sector of the Anatolian battle front, said a dispatch from Adana this afternoon. The Greek commander was wounded and captured. The Turks have occupied Kassaba, 30 miles west of Smyrna but cavalry detachments that he was not the policeman involved in the tragic shooting.

Bil turned around and walked the other way. Later on he decided he had better make his identity known, and he braved the presence of the crowd, where the loiters made the discovery that he was not the policeman involved in the tragic shooting.

Prosecutor Williamson Friday reiterated his statement that he is following the usual legal process in delaying the filing of charges or grand jury action against the officers until after the Coroner's inquest. He said Friday morning that if the officers were arraigned on any charge now, that they would merely be bound over to the Grand Jury under a bond which might not be as large or at least any larger than the bond under which the officers were sworn in. The Sheriff's usual bond is $10,000. The prosecutor also said Friday that he is consulting prominent attorneys and officials here and in other places including the States Attorney General, and that he believes he is following the usual procedure in awaiting the outcome of the inquest before taking any prosecuting action. Consultation with the assistant prosecutor of Montgomery County resulted in his being told to "sit tight," that he was doing the right thing, according to Williamson. The case is believed to be without precedent.

With authorities marking time regarding official action, sentiment, while not entirely subsided, had died down considerably Thursday night and Friday. Although the tragedy was still being discussed, there was no threatened violence, and authorities believe now that there will be no outbreak, and that the law will be permitted to run its course. Although extra policemen were on duty Thursday night again, no trouble of any kind was experienced, police say. The Thursday night crowd was slightly above normal in size, but was not marked by violent attitudes.

Rumors that farmers living in the neighborhood of the shooting, including relatives of the boys involved, were preparing to circulate petitions asking that Sheriff Funderburgh and his deputies be removed from office, were not denied. Men in the neighborhood are said to have called at the office of Con Mattern, Dayton criminal attorney Thursday, but that he was away. Farmers denied Friday that they had engaged Mattern or any other attorney to represent them. They admitted there was considerable talk of petitions asking removal.

Authorities Friday verified information obtainable Thursday that the proper method of seeking removal of the officers is by petition to Common Pleas Court, signed by 20 per cent of the voters at the last election. This provision for removal is made in Section 10-2 of the General Code of the State of Ohio.

LABOR WILL DEMAND REPEAL OF SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW

A. F. O. L. to Formulate Plan at Meeting in Atlantic City

"USED AGAINST THEM"

Government Takes Role of Spectator in Industrial Situation

Atlantic City, Sept. 8.—Demand for the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust law on the ground that it is being used against labor, will be formulated during the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in this city, it was learned today. The meeting will open tomorrow.

It is understood that the members of the council, assisted by legal advice will draft the outline of a new measure which they will propose as a substitute for the Sherman anti-trust law.

Labor leaders contend that instead of being used to "dissolve illegal combinations of capital," the Sherman anti-trust act is invoked to dissipate labor organizations. They assert that it would not be satisfactory to try to amend the Sherman law as it would "have to be abolished altogether" if the present plans of organized labor are to be made effective.

Washington, Sept. 8.—With the government both on the offensive and defensive in the law courts, organized labor began the consideration of plans today that will chart the future course of the railway strike.

For the next few days the government, it appeared, will be forced into the role of a passive spectator, while the leaders of the six striking shopcrafts meet in Chicago to discuss "separate peace" measures and while the powerful executive council of the American Federation of Labor meets in Atlantic City to determine the extent of aid that can be given the shopmen.

A decision was expected today or tomorrow in district supreme court on the application made by the brotherhood of electrical workers for a restraining order that will prevent federal officials from carrying out the terms of the drastic injunction secured in Chicago by Attorney General Daugherty.

The permanency of the Chicago injunction will be argued Monday. It is regarded as certain that its most drastic provisions will be modified by consent of the government.

Meanwhile the cabinet met today in usual session to discuss the usual subject—the industrial situation arising from the rail strike and coal shortage.

MILLERAND'S LIFE PLACED IN DANGER

Paris, Sept. 8.—A man believed to be demented, who was acting in a suspicious manner, was arrested today in the home of President Alexandre Millerand of France—the Elysee palace.

The prisoner who was described by the police as a "fanatic" succeeded in getting by the guards on duty at the entrance and was roaming through the halls when servants found him.

When the gendarmes were called, the man drew a revolver and fired in the direction of the approaching policemen. He was quickly seized, overpowered and placed under arrest.

RENDER INJUNCTION POWERLESS FOR TIME

Washington, Sept. 8.—The Daugherty strike injunction was rendered temporarily unenforceable today in the district of Columbia when the U. S. Attorney Gordon and U. S. Marshal Snyder were ordered to appear in the district supreme court tomorrow to show cause why they should not be enjoined from enforcing the Chicago writ. The action is that brought by the international brotherhood of electrical workers to test the validity of the injunction.

COTTON INDUSTRY TO BE INVESTIGATED

Washington, Sept. 8.—The senate today ordered a sweeping investigation of the cotton industry with special attention to alleged manipulation of the cotton market.

POLICEMEN GUARD MINE CONVENTION

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 8.—The big drive of the John H. Lewis forces for ratification of the Pepper-Reed anthracite miners peace pact, was set in motion today but is meeting with stubborn resistance from the insurgents under the leadership of Rinaldo Cappellini. The radicals are ready to make their last stand. They have not given up, although they appear to be hopelessly beaten.

Seven policemen armed with riot club, are at the door of the convention. More policemen are held in reserve for any emergency.

Today's session of the tri-district convention promises some interesting moments. Cappellini and his followers declare they will fly the administration leaders from the floor and they are already referring to peace proposal as an "operators' victory."

GREAT LEGAL MANHUNT BEGINS AS LAW MOVES IN HERRIN MASSACRE

INQUEST INTO DEATH OF NICHOLS BOY WILL BE TUESDAY MORNING

Talk of Petitions Asking Removal of Sheriff Funderburgh Heard—Prosecutor Says He Is Following Usual Legal Method of Procedure.

Inquest in the death of Volney Nichols, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Nichols, who was killed when a crowd of boys along the Wilmington pike was fired upon by a Sheriff's posse Tuesday night, will be held Tuesday morning at eight o'clock in the office of the court stenographer in the Court House.

This was the announcement Friday morning of Dr. R. L. Haines, County Coroner, and came after a consultation with Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, disclosed the fact that there is no provision for coroner's juries in the State of Ohio. The inquest therefore will be of regulation form, and about 40 witnesses will be examined.

Owing to the absence of Miss Elsie Canby, court stenographer, who is on her vacation the coroner and prosecutor were making efforts Friday to obtain the services of John H. Martin, Columbus, Court of Appeals stenographer, to act as stenographer during the inquest. If his services are not obtained, a stenographer from another county will be sought.

Coroner Haines believes that with the number of witnesses to be examined, the inquest will consume at least two days in order that all of the testimony can be taken. The transcript of the evidence will be gone over by the Coroner before he renders his verdict, which will probably not be given out until Thursday or Friday. In the meantime a copy of the transcript will be made a matter of public record preserved in the archives of the Clerk of Courts.

Four Years' Fight Against Unequal Odds Ends As Father's Health Breaks; Seek Home for Six Worthy Children In County

A struggle of four years against enormous odds ended this week when William Harbison, of Trumbull Street, was forced to give up the unequal fight of keeping his family of seven motherless children together and was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Dayton, suffering with toxemia. The children were removed to the County Home, temporarily, while an attempt is being made to find homes for them.

The story of the four years' of struggle against giving up to charity was revealed by the Social Service League, which has been a frequent visitor at the home for the past several months, where the father and children have been fighting valiantly for livelihood and decent home life.

Coming as a crisis in the affairs of the family has been the father's desperate illness during the past two weeks, and the home where peace and simple comfort was enjoyed while the mother was at home, has steadily deteriorated under the pressure of strengthened financial difficulties.

Letters to The Editor

Editor Gazette and Republican: In answer to Mr. S. K. Coffman's letter in yesterday's paper about the shooting of the boys on the Wilmington pike by the sheriff's posse, I would like to ask how any fair-minded person can say the boys were doing a thoughtless wrong by playing a trick in such a manner. In my opinion, Mr. Coffman has no children or he could not have made this statement. I wonder if he wasn't a boy once and played the same kind of tricks. I cannot see how any man can look at those boys who were shot up and make such statements, for the parents of the boys to look upon.

Dana, the lad that has the home in the country will be sent to school this winter, and his good fortune is the incentive of the other children, who are basing their hopes upon the answers to their pleas for a home. Will you play a fairy god mother, by calling the Social Service League, and enlisting your generosity?

Another similar request and upon inquiry Mrs. Robertson found that the lad had no underwear to ward off the cold winter winds while standing on the street corner. He was promptly fitted out.

A brother of the father, an evangelist in Indiana, visited the family and the Social Service League workers, this week, and told them that he and his wife were unable to care for the children, since their work forced them to travel.

Four Years' Fight Against Unequal Odds Ends As Father's Health Breaks; Seek Home for Six Worthy Children In County

A struggle of four years against enormous odds ended this week when William Harbison, of Trumbull Street, was forced to give up the unequal fight of keeping his family of seven motherless children together and was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Dayton, suffering with toxemia. The children were removed to the County Home temporarily, while an attempt is being made to find homes for them.

The story of the four years' struggle against giving up to charity was revealed by the Social Service League, which has been a frequent visitor at the home for the past several months, where the father and children have been fighting valiantly for a livelihood and decent home life.

Coming as a crisis in the affairs of the family has been the father's desperate illness during the past two weeks, and the home where peace and simple comfort was enjoyed while the mother was at home has steadily deteriorated under the pressure of straightened financial difficulties.

Letters to The Editor

Editor Gazette and Republican: In answer to Mr. S. K. Coffman's letter in yesterday's paper about the shooting of the boys on the Wilmington pike by the sheriff's posse, I would like to ask how any fair-minded person can say the boys were doing a thoughtless wrong by playing a trick in such a manner. In my opinion, Mr. Coffman has no children or he could not have made this statement. I wonder if he wasn't a boy once and played the same kind of tricks. I cannot see how any man can look at those boys who were shot up and make such statements, for the parents of the boys to look upon.

MRS. MARY HAWK DIES ON THURSDAY

Mrs. Mary Hawk, 86, a native of Germany, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Richard Dillon, on the Fairfield pike, near Yellow Springs, Thursday at twelve o'clock.

Mrs. Hawk is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Mary Esterline, Mrs. John Shaw, Mrs. Caroline Lowe, Mrs. Otto Fleckenstein, and Mrs. Richard Dillon, all of Yellow Springs.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday morning at the St. Paul's Catholic Church, at Yellow Springs, with interment at St. Paul's cemetery.

PAYING FOR THE HOME

"Up to two years ago my money all went to doctors and medicine for my stomach trouble. I was constantly filled with gas and no medicine helped me permanently until I tried a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy at that time with excellent results. Now I am using my money in paying for a home." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

The ages of the children range from a girl of fourteen to a small boy of five. All are sweet appealing children, their struggle being proof of their ambition, and worthiness according to Mrs. Robertson.

If homes are obtained for the children they are expected to be permanent as the father it is thought will not attempt the struggle after his release from the hospital where he will probably be confined for a long time.

A SAFETY RECORD.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announces that in the year to May 31 not a passenger was killed in a train accident.

A few figures show the meaning of the statement. The number of travelers was 152,000,000—nearly half again the entire population of the country. They were moved in 1,400,000 passenger trains. Every operation might have meant an accident, and there is no safety device that is 100 per cent fool-proof. Often the army of employees had to take thought for those who disregarded every signal of warning and every precaution designed to protect them.

Chuckle-headed and utterly reckless as the traveling public in separate instances often seems to be, such a record as that cited could not have been made unless the people had learned a great deal about rail travel that it is good for them to know, by a gradual education which has included now and then a mournful object lesson in the tragic results of a momentary heedlessness. Track-walkers and train-hands can do so much and no more; the rider on the rail is not a package of merchandise whirled through space, but a sentient being whose duty it is, for his part, to comply with reasonable regulations framed in his own interest.

REPUBLICAN CONTROL OF HOUSE ASSURED.

Party campaign managers are in remarkably close agreement as to the probable outcome of the House elections. Seldom have the rival figures been in such accord. Both sides expect the Republicans will retain control and their joint estimates place the majority at twenty or twenty-five.

Representative Rouse, of Kentucky, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, says the Democrats will hold their present seats and gain seventy-six, now held by Republicans. His estimate would give the Administration party a margin of fifteen, the present Republican majority being 167. Removing those districts in which the element of doubt prevails, even in the Democratic forecasts, the prospective Republican majority would be around twenty-five.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, announces the Republicans will retain control of the House by a majority of forty. That means an admission from him of the probability of their losing sixty-four seats to the opposition, most of them being in normal Democratic districts gained in the landslide vote of 1920 for Harding and Coolidge.

MOTOR HOMICIDES.

A Grand Jury in New York City has just made a special presentation on the subject of motor accidents and homicides which deserves the careful attention of law-making and law-enforcing authorities everywhere. Instead of "viewing with alarm," or indulging in vague condemnation of conditions which are appalling, this body made a series of recommendations for the correction of the present crying evil and for the safety of the public. While addressed specifically to New York, its suggestions are equally applicable everywhere, as it attributes the greater proportion of the accidents and homicides in which motor vehicles figure to the incompetency of drivers and the laxity with which existing regulations are enforced.

One of the most practical and urgent of the remedies proposed, and one which is pre-eminently needed to meet conditions is a more rigid requirement as to the qualifications of persons to whom drivers' licenses shall be issued; qualifications which will apply not alone to character and competency, but to the possession by the applicant of normal vision and hearing. Another excellent suggestion is that prison sentences instead of fines be made the penalty for reckless driving and for flagrant violations of traffic rules. If these and other proposals looking to uniform traffic control, etc., were generally adopted, there can be little doubt that the highways would be made more safe for law-abiding and careful automobile drivers and for pedestrians.

THE REPUBLIC OF BRAZIL IS A HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

Secretary Hughes goes to South America to the Brazilian Centennial celebration with especial satisfaction at this time because, before the end of July, the Chilean and Peruvian delegates at Washington had signed an agreement referring the long-standing territorial dispute between their countries to President Harding for final arbitration. This is one of the most signal triumphs for the principle of arbitration that has ever been won.

The world affords few visible marks of progress more startling than the contrast between the Rio de Janeiro that welcomed the court of Portugal and pilfered the staves, skates, and English saddles strewn over an unlovely beach in 1808, and the Rio which on September 7, 1922, celebrates its hundredth anniversary of complete independence from the incubus of the Portuguese court and Crown monopolies. Today, ships come alongside an endless line of concrete docks, and electric cranes swing the cargoes of the twentieth century into warehouses ample for whatever the great world cares to send.

The marshy waterfront has become the most slightly fifteen miles of seaside boulevards and parks of which any great city can boast. The population has increased from 112,000, in 1821, to 1,158,000 in 1920. And what was once a pest-hole of yellow fever has become one of the cleanest and most sanitary cities in the world—far cleaner than most North American cities of equal size.

For six or eight months past this splendid modern Rio de Janeiro in the pride of her strength and beauty has been preparing to welcome the world to Brazil's Centennial Celebration, which opened September 7, and will run until March 31, 1923. The exposition is to be not only an evidence of the country's achievements in the manifold lines of human activity, but a world's fair in which most of the nations will participate. Half a dozen world congresses have fixed upon Rio as the scene for this year's meetings, and the South American Olympic Games are on the program. Most of the buildings are located on the waterfront in the very heart of the city. Work has been going on day and night since the first of the year, and the opening day seen the fair far nearer completion than most of the world fairs of the last three decades.

SOOTHING FOOTBATHS

I remember hearing a woman tell her friends that, whenever her husband came home of an evening so tired that he was easily irritated, she met the situation with a soothing footbath. She added that it had never failed to bring an apology later for his hasty words. There are few of us who have not had this man's experience, and it would be well if we learned to apply the same remedy.

Shoes, at their best, are far from

If the toes are red or inflamed, soak them for a time in hot water in which a half a teaspoon of alum, a half teaspoon of powdered borax, and two tablespoons of coarse salt have been dissolved. Rub dry and wear a comfortable loose shoe for a while. If there is a tendency to rheumatism, soak the feet in a hot solution of Epsom salts. After the foot bath, a refreshing thing is to spray the feet with toilet vinegar, or if this is not at hand, with toilet water. If there is any soreness rub the places with a piece of cut lemon and let the acid dry into the skin.

Undecided:—If you bobbed your hair and wanted to do it up again very soon, you could count upon sufficient growth in about three months.

STORMS COME

And Misfortunes Occur in the Lives of All.
Life Is Seasoned with Sorrows.

Business and financial storms are the most sudden. And often the most serious. The best we human beings can do is to build a strong shelter.

Those who have the shelter of money on deposit in a safe institution usually escape. The others lose. But it is important that you keep your money in a safe institution.

Of all the financial institutions of Central Ohio, none is more secure and substantial than our well-known Building and Loan. Upon this assertion and our established record we seek your business.

the ideal covering for the foot. Realizing the anatomy of the foot and its relation to the rest of the body, it is surprising that more troubles are not traced to abuse of the feet. In the foot are the most active secreting pores. The foot also has nerves that respond more sensitively to the nervous system than those from other parts of the body. Yet we cover it most of the time with materials that do not ventilate easily, and give it very little care until we feel wretched because of our habits.

Since there is no present means of improving our habits, the best thing to do is to relieve the feet as much as possible. One of the best ways to do this is with the hot bath. This will open all the pores and equalize the circulation, which so often is impeded by the pressure of the shoes. Since the feet are so delicately allied to the nervous system, there will be a complete relaxation following the foot bath.

THE FATAL CROSSING.

The fatal railway crossing! Grim death still functions there, with locomotives tossing their victims in the air. In vain the signboards glisten with warnings wide and high, for men won't look and listen, and consequently die. Each day we order caskets for people killed by trains; the coroners with baskets, pick up the strewn remains. Along the highway's edges, and from the stumps and stones, and from the trees and hedges, they pick the collarbones. It ought to be a warning, and yet, alas, alack! The prudent signboards scorning, we cross the railway track; and now an engine busy comes whooping up the rails, and hits our priceless Lizzie, and through the air it sails. A sparkplug and a piston is all that's life of Liz; we will not look or listen as merrily we whiz. The coroner is keeping his tab on our remains; our striken aunts are weeping and cursing railway trains. Some gent will read these verses, I have no doubt, today; and, thinking not of hearse, he'll scoot along his way; he'll strike a gait that's dizzy, that's neither safe nor sane, and presently his Lizzie will hit a railway train. We'll gather up the pieces, and as we toil we'll wail, "The death list still increases! No warnings will avail!"

LOOK FAR!

If you have no vision, you have nothing by which you are able to rise from the place where you are.

In dreams do many people live and die, but through dreams there are those who have reshaped the world.

Look far! Beyond the things of trivial moment.

The traveler sets out on his journey. He has a map by which he is to be guided. If he gets off his track, he will consult his map again. But all the time he has within his mind a picture of the place to which he is going. He looks far.

A man may carry a vision in his mind, but it must have its source of inspiration in his heart, else its materiality will soon or later crush out the thing for which he most strives and his life will end in disappointment, no matter how much he is worth in money.

The great Cecil Rhodes looked so far that he became known as "The Empire Builder." And it was because of the vision of James J. Hill that he also was known as an Empire Builder. Rhodes saw a vast territory united into one for the common good of all, in South Africa, Hill saw long lines of railroads reaching their arms into untrod lands, waiting for the immigrants.

Your character becomes just about what you are dreaming and planning that it shall become.

And your success is going to be tempered by what you see each day as a possibility of the workings of your mind.

Look far!

Don't be afraid to look too far. It is much grander to aim too high and never reach your goal than to aim low and reach it easily.

Keep just ahead of where people expect to find you.

See things completed. Then you will be able to go through all the hardships, the sufferings, the disappointments, the setbacks—and not mind at all.

Look far!

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

The firemen of the lower engine house are taking their vacation. Mr. John Price was off duty last week and this week Mr. Charles Dill is taking his vacation.

Mr. Jacob Kany returned yesterday from New York where he has been for the past week laying in his fall goods. The big clock in the Court House tower must be wound twice a week and this takes plenty of muscle to accomplish the work.

A still alarm called the fire department to the Whitmer Park last evening. The grass and fence were on fire, and with the exception of the kangaroo having his whiskers scorched none of the animals were damaged.

Of course, you would require the assistance of a switch and would need to arrange the hair so that short ends would be caught in a net.

A Reader—Hair that is growing from a mole should be removed only by a skin specialist. Since yours is on the side of the forehead, so close to the hair line, here should be nothing disfiguring about it and I would leave it alone.

THE FATAL CROSSING.

The fatal railway crossing! Grim death still functions there, with locomotives tossing their victims in the air. In vain the signboards glisten with warnings wide and high, for men won't look and listen, and consequently die. Each day we order caskets for people killed by trains; the coroners with baskets, pick up the strewn remains. Along the highway's edges, and from the stumps and stones, and from the trees and hedges, they pick the collar-bones. It ought to be a warning, and yet, alas, alack! The prudent signboards scorning, we cross the railway track; and now an engine busy comes whooping up the rails, and hits our priceless Lizzie, and through the air it sails. A sparkplug and a piston is all that's life of Liz; we will not look or listen as merrily we whiz. The coroner is keeping his tab on our remains; our striken aunts are weeping and cursing railway trains. Some gent will read these verses, I have no doubt, today; and, thinking not of hearse, he'll scot along his way; he'll strike a gait that's dizzy, that's neither safe nor sane, and presently his Lizzie will hit a railway train. We'll gather up the pieces, and as we toil we'll wail, "The death list still increases! No warnings will avail!"

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

LOOK FAR!

If you have no vision, you have nothing by which you are able to rise from the place where you are.

In dreams do many people live and die, but through dreams there are those who have reshaped the world.

Look far! Beyond the things of trivial moment.

The traveler sets out on his journey. He has a map by which he is to be guided. If he gets off his track, he will consult his map again. But all the time he has within his mind a picture of the place to which he is going. He looks far.

A man may carry a vision in his mind, but it must have its source of inspiration in his heart, else it materiality will soon or later crush out the thing for which he most strives and his life will end in disappointment, no matter how much he is worth in money.

The great Cecil Rhodes looked so far that he became known as "The Empire Builder." And it was because of the vision of James J. Hill that he also was known as an Empire Builder. Rhodes saw a vast territory united into one for the common good of all, in South Africa, Hill saw long lines of railroads reaching their arms into untried lands, waiting for the immigrants.

Your character becomes just about what you are dreaming and planning that it shall become.

And your success is going to be tempered by what you see each day as a possibility of the workings of your mind.

Look far!

Don't be afraid to look too far. It is much grander to aim too high and never reach your goal than to aim low and reach it easily.

Keep just ahead of where people expect to find you.

See things completed. Then you will be able to go through all the hardships, the sufferings, the disappointments, the setbacks—and not mind at all.

Look far!

IRISH AMAZONS SOURCE OF TROUBLE DURING WARFARE

London, Sept. 7.—Not the least of the troubles which were faced by Michael Collins, martyred leader in the Irish Provisional Government were the Irish Amazons.

The exploits of militant women sympathizers with the Irish cause are not allowed to be sent out of Ireland in press dispatches which come under a strict military censorship. Nevertheless, news of the ceaseless endeavors of young Irish women continue to reach London.

Attack Mountjoy Jail

Recent attacks upon Mountjoy Jail where the irregular prisoners are incarcerated, are said to have been instigated by women. The Provisional Government offices are continually besieged by women demanding all manner of concessions and asserting their rights as citizens of the Free State and in the same breath denying the right of the Free State.

The Irish Amazons are conducting a constant heckling campaign, and no action is taken to restrain them. The authorities know that it would not be wise to make war upon women; much less would it be politic to jail them, hence these enthusiastic and heckling women, many of them girls barely out of their teens, continue these tactics.

The Irish Amazons are not without their own convictions. They truly believe they are acting in the best interests of Ireland when they strive to obstruct the Free State forces, and their intensity is most notable.

Resist British Allegiance

"We would rather see Ireland wiped off the map, than to have it continue under the British King!" one of these Irish Amazons told the writer not long ago in an interview in London. The young woman made this remark with all sincerity. She was not a wild-eyed woman, instead she was a timid girl, whose freckled face, sparkling blue eyes and softly toned brogue belied the fact that she was of the Irish militants. "They may kill our men folk, but they can never kill the spirit of the republic," said this Amazon. "We women are ready to die, because we have been betrayed. We feel that it would be better that there should be no Ireland than an Ireland under the domination of Great Britain."

Put Up False Posters

A fair example of the heckling tactics of these Irish Amazons is the "recruiting posters," which have been plastered all over Dublin. Amazons paste these posters up faster than the Free State soldiers can tear them down. One of the posters given wide play, headed by a reproduction of the royal arms is as follows:

YOUR KING AND COUNTRY CALL

"Rally once more to the colors. Remember the brave lads of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers and the Many other Irish Regiments who gallantly fought for the Empire and helped raise the Flag in Africa, India, Egypt and Many of the battlefields of Europe. Read the names of Many of your countrymen inscribed upon the Arch to the Royal Dublin Fusiliers, St. Stephens Green. Irishmen, the Empire is in danger; she needs Your help. Join up at the nearest recruiting station!"

(Signed) MICHAEL COLLINS, Commander of the Forces in Ireland

"RICHARD MULCAHY,

"OWEN DUFFY."

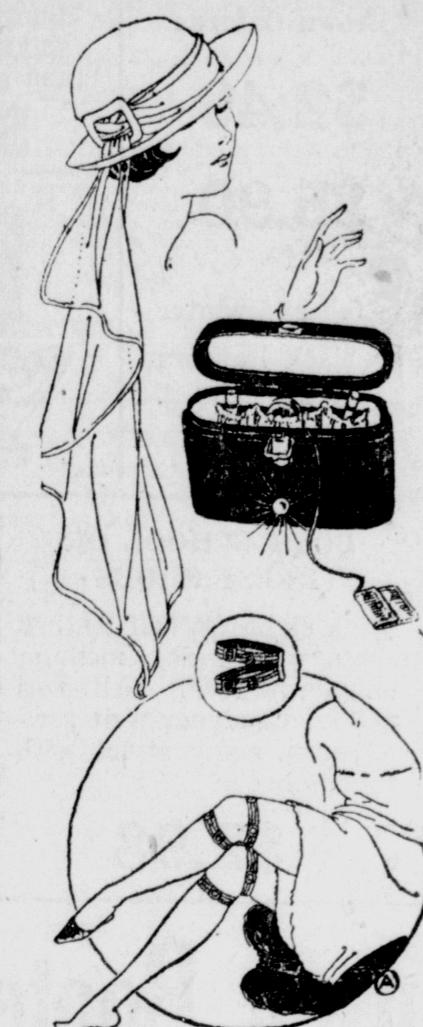

"GOD SAVE THE KING!"

It is such tactics as these that make the Irish Amazons a problem.

Styles BY LENORE

Thanks to the ingenuity of one inventive mind, woman's most useful vanity of vanities, the vanity case, has been made still more useful. It is now equipped with an electric light so that you can powder your nose in the dark. The battery of the light is concealed on the bottom.

of garter, which supports the hose above and below the knee and makes for greater smoothness. The two garters are joined by a strip of ribbon in the back.

And if you are looking for something really new and striking in sports effects, try this picturesque veil idea. A vividly colored georgette veil is attached to a georgette covered buckle, and is drawn tightly around the crown of any hat, and then drawn back into the buckle and allowed to hang in a graceful streamer at the side.

LITTLE THOUGHT OF TRAGEDY AS BOYS PREPARE FOR TRIP

Tuesday afternoon, Volney and Dorsey Nichols, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Nichols of the Wilmington Pike and Hook road, poured over a road map at their home.

They were studying the route they would take Wednesday, when they expected to leave for a trip to Chicago, where they hoped to obtain work. They had only recently purchased a new automobile in which to make the trip, and Sunday had taken some companions on a trip to Dayton.

As they poured over the road map with enthusiasm for their plans, no thought of the tragedy that stalked on their heels, entered their boyish minds. Only a few hours later, Volney was dead and his brother in a critical condition in Espey Hospital here.

"They were good boys," say friends of the family, who claim that the boys neither used tobacco nor profane language, nor that they did anything out of the way. They had the reputation of being a big source of support to their parents, turning over practically everything they made as hard working youths to their father and mother, with the exception of the little they needed for themselves. Out of this latter they saved the money to buy the automobile.

Mrs. Nichols, mother of the boys, who had been ill previously to the shooting, suffered considerably from the shock after she had learned of the tragedy. Because it was feared she would be unable to attend the funeral services Friday afternoon, the body was removed to the house by the undertaker at 11 o'clock Friday morning. If she was able she was to attend the services held at Woodland Cemetery Chapel at 2:30 o'clock in charge of the Rev. E. W. Middleton, pastor of the Reformed Church James Lacey and Scott Nichols, uncles of the body, expected from near Lexington, Ky., to attend the funeral, did not arrive.

HOSTESS FRIDAY AT DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

Mrs. O. E. Bales of West Third Street, was hostess at a delightful affair Friday afternoon from two to five o'clock, in honor of Miss Amanda Wead of Los Angeles, Cal., who is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Mose Hagler and other relatives in this locality.

The guests were all women who had been classmates in the Lauman school, district No. 9, in their girlhood, and during the afternoon all greatly enjoyed reminiscences of their happy school days.

The beautiful rooms of the Bales home were profusely decorated with flowers. The colors pink and white predominating. During the afternoon a cooling refreshment course was very daintily served. The guests from out of the city were Mrs. Dr. McConnell, of Springfield, Mrs. Sam Snyder, of Springfield, Mrs. Harry Sutton of Yellow Springs, Mrs. Grace Hubble, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Frank Custerborder of Bellbrook.

BRIDE-ELECT HONORED AT BRIDGE LUNCHEON

Mrs. F. Leon Spahr was hostess to another lovely afternoon party at her home on North Detroit Street, Thursday afternoon, complimenting Miss Julia B. McCormick, bride-elect of next week, when she entertained a company of twenty-six guests, at a bridge luncheon.

Fragrant pink roses were used centering each of the tables, at which the guests were seated, while masses of garden flowers used about the rooms of Mrs. Spahr home added to the attractiveness of the decorations.

During cards, the prize for the highest score was presented to Mrs. Lawrence Laybourne, of Springfield, while Miss McCormick was given a dainty guest prize. A prettily appointed three course luncheon was served by Mrs. Spahr.

Mrs. Harry Maka, and Mrs. Walter McGervey, of Dayton, were the out of town guests at the affair.

Mrs. W. Crawford Craig is receiving guests for five tables of bridge, at her home on West Second Street, Friday afternoon in Miss McCormick's honor.

BALLENTINE—WHITE WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

Before hundreds of invited guests, including the entire membership of the church the marriage of Miss Janet Wallace Ballentyne, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Ballentyne, of North Detroit Street, to the Rev. Bonner Dale White, of Chester, South Carolina, was solemnized at the Second United Presbyterian Church, Thursday evening at seven thirty o'clock, the Rev. Charles P. Proudfit, the bride's pastor officiating.

Masses of fairy white clematis, banked in the windows, hung from the chandeliers, and used in profusion in the organ loft, converted the church into a bower for the ceremony.

The guest pews of the church were decorated by strands of ribbon at each aisle. The attractive decorations of the church were the handiwork of the Young Ladies Missionary Society of the Church, of which the bride was a member.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Walker Gordon opened the short program of nuptial ceremony with a solo, "Dawning," accompanied by Mrs. Fannie Moore. The selection was followed by a duet by Miss Martha Anderson, and Mr. Gordon, "Dreaming of Love and You," accompanied by Mrs. Moore, who blended into the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, upon the entrance of the bride.

Leading the wedding procession were the ushers, Robert Ballentyne, brother of the bride; Edwin Bradfute, Walker Taylor and William M. Anderson, all cousins of the bride, and members of the Second United Presbyterian Church.

The bridegroom, with his best man, his brother, Mr. Harvey Stewart White, of Chester, South Carolina, walked following the ushers.

Miss Ballentyne chose for her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Agnes Ballentyne, who walked next, wearing a pretty frock of blue voile, and carrying Columbia roses.

The three bride's maids walked next, all wearing dresses of white, with varicolored sashes. Their flowers were all Columbia roses. They were Miss Margaret Ballentyne, sister of the bride; Miss Helen Bradfute, Miss Celia Moore, and Miss Blanche Chambers of Walton, New York.

Little Miss Mary Elen Proudfit, daughter of the Rev. Charles Proudfit was a charming flower girl, dressed in a dainty frock of white, with pink and blue embroidery, and carrying a basket of Columbus roses.

The bride, with her twin brother, Mr. John Ballentyne, who gave her in marriage, walked next. The bride's gown was a handsome creation of Phillipine white silk net, embroidered over a foundation of silver cloth, her veil of silk net caught in her hair cap-fashion, with orange blossoms, falling to the hem of her dress. Her flowers were a shower of bride's roses.

NO WARRANT SAWN OUT FOR SHERIFF PROSECUTOR SAYS

"FLYING PARSON" IS KILLED IN AIRPLANE ACCIDENT IN EAST

Denial that Coroner R. L. Haines had advised Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson to swear out a warrant for Sheriff Lincoln Funderburgh, on the advise of Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Albert Schaefer of Montgomery County, as published in a Dayton paper Friday, was expressed by officials here.

Coroner Haines had been previously advised by the Montgomery County Coroner that a coroner's jury could be picked in this state. Prosecutor Williamson denied that the Ohio laws permitted such a jury and Coroner Haines called for Prosecutor Haveth Mau of Dayton, to see if a precedent had been set in that county.

When the call came in Prosecutor Williamson talked and Schaefer answered the telephone. He said no coroner's jury had ever been called in Montgomery County. The only reference to the Tuesday night shooting near here was made, when Schaefer referred to the affair indirectly and told Williamson to "sit tight" and that he was "doing the right thing," the local Prosecutor said afterward.

Prosecutor Williamson Friday also denied that he had ordered the suspension of Patrolman Charles Simms after the shooting Tuesday night. He said he advised Simms be sent home as a means of personal safety and as a precautionary measure, and so advised Chief of Police Graham. The department head later decided it would be best to keep Simms off duty for the present.

Members of the Nichols family were sorry to learn that citizens anticipated trouble Wednesday night if relatives of the Nichols family arrived from Kentucky. Mrs. Logan Nichols said her brother, James Lacey and her brother-in-law, Scott Nichols, who were expected but who did not arrive, would be the last to participate in any violence, and the family felt hurt over the opinion circulated among many rumors after the Tuesday night tragedy.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO ROBBING BANK IN DAYTON; CAUGHT

Dayton, O., Sept. 8—Cecil Udwin, 24, today told police authorities he robbed the east Dayton branch of the Dayton Savings and Trust Company of more than $2,600 yesterday afternoon in order that he might buy clothing, which his salary did not permit him to do.

He explained the robbery in detail and said a colored man was to help him but failed to show up at the appointed time. Then he said he asked the taxi driver to help him. The motor was to be kept running for a quick get away.

Udwin was arrested at a rooming house, after a coal wagon driver discovered him to it and was given a tip of $54. That aroused his suspicions and he notified the police and the

DIAMOND FANS TO WATCH CONTEST

Diamond fans are interested in the clash between the Bayliff Electrics and the Morrowton nine at Washington St. Park Sunday afternoon, when the two outfits tangle in the rub-off of a three game series.

Morrow won the first game between the teams by clouting the pellet very timely to all corners of the lot. Their heavy smashes were still echoed along the B. & O. tracks, when they returned for a second engagement and were repulsed with heavy losses, by "Lefty" Cooper and his mates.

The result of these two games leaves the superiority of the teams still a matter of conjecture, with the decision resting on the coming combat. Manager Roy Bayliff has stocked up for the visitors this time. He has gone into the base ball warehouse and plucked what he wanted to fill gaps or weak spots in his lineup, with the result that several new faces will be seen.

Owners of these new faces are Westheimer who will play short, while "Jap" Ritter is shifted to the difficult corner, Dixon who may cavort in left field in place of Drake and Bratton, a relief hurler, who will be used on the mound in case the regular, righthander cannot go the route. The rest of the lineup will be Bocklet, 1b; Tucker 2b; Starkey rf; Fuller cf and Frantz behind the bat. Morrow's lineup will be Cowder 1b; Conwell 2b; Weaver 3b; Seth 3c; C. Cowden rf; Martin cf; Carroll lf; Howard c; Minnick p.

HOUSE CLEANING IS URGED IN DISTRICT HEALTH DIVISIONS

Columbus, Sept. 8.—Inefficiency in district health departments in Ohio can be eliminated only by a thorough house-cleaning, Dr. F. G. Boudreau, chief of the division of communicable diseases of the state department, declared last night in an address before Ohio health commissioners at the Southern hotel.

"Departments which are weak are in worse shape now than they were when first organized early in 1920," he said. "There is no salvation for the incumbents; they are hopeless. The only remedy is to get rid of them."

Dr. Boudreau said inefficiency is far from being wide-spread in Ohio. "There are 50 district health commissioners in the state who are making a name for themselves," he declared. "For the most part it can be stated truthfully the work is being carried forward on a high plane of efficiency."

Dr. Boudreau took occasion to condemn a "tendency toward carelessness in registration of births, deaths and cases of sickness."

"The importance of this work must not be minimized," he said. "The whole system of records must be improved and maintained if real health service is to be given the people of Ohio."

A committee was appointed to draft a report on sanitary conditions at Buckeye, Indian and Portage Lake districts and to urge the legislature to enact legislation and make necessary appropriations to provide adequate sanitary systems.

Division chiefs explained the work of the state health department and at the morning meeting and in the afternoon essentials of successful health administration were discussed by a number of district health commissioners.

The series of meetings, marking the third annual conference of Ohio health commissioners will close with a short session at the Southern this morning. Rabies and its prevention and nutrition work from the physician's standpoint are the subjects to be discussed.

McADOO TO BE CANDIDATE IN 1924 EX SENATOR SAYS

New York, Sept. 8.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, is an avowed candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in 1924. William C. Lyons, of Denver, former Colorado state senator and sergeant-at-arms at the last three Democratic conventions, declared here yesterday.

"I saw McAdoo in Los Angeles less than a month ago," Mr. Lyons said "and he told me plainly that he would be in the race next time. He will enter the California presidential primaries unopposed."

Chapter 65

Nellie and Miss Jones were at their desks. Mr. George Fallon had not yet come in. Suddenly Nellie was aware of an unusual disturbance in the hall—voices, ogers, loud voices. The door opened, and men carrying the limp figure of her employer came in.

"What is it?" Miss Jones exclaimed as she sprang from her chair, and helped lay him on the leather couch. "He was getting out of his machine, stepped in front of another," one of the men answered, but Miss Jones scarcely heard. She was telephoning to a doctor. No one had noticed Nellie, this she did more because of Nellie, them for any other reason, although she was genuinely attached to her employer. But she wanted the girl to know just how much need there was for her to be unhappy.

"You say he is better?" she asked the person who answered the call. "This is his office asking."

Miss Jones repeated what had been said to Nellie. It was as the doctor had decided, shock, but no real injury otherwise. Mr. Fallon must rest a day or two.

"That means he will not be here tomorrow?" Nellie said.

"Probably not for several days. We will have to run the office, so an along home and get a good night's sleep. I am going out tonight, so won't see you until morning."

Thankful to be alone, Nellie hurried home. She went immediately to her room, telling the maid she would not

No one had noticed Nellie, who had crept to Mr. Fallon's side, and after one look at his white face had fainted.

Her faint lasted only a moment and as Miss Jones left the telephone she saw Nellie lift the hand that fell over the edge of the couch and press it to her lips, before she struggled to her feet. Her face, agonized, the action was illuminating.

"Poor child—I never dreamed of that!" Miss Jones said to herself as she crossed to the couch and endeavored to make their employer more comfortable. Nellie helped her with shaking hands, then whispered:

"Will he die?"

"We can't tell how seriously he is injured until the doctor comes," the woman laid her hand over his heart. "He's breathing—there comes the doctor," as a capable looking man came in.

Almost before he had time to examine the injured man, Fallon opened his eyes and a faint smile, into Nellie's anxious face, sent the blood back to her cheeks.

"He's bruised some but it's principally shock. I don't think he is injured otherwise," the doctor said. Then he asked that the room be cleared that he might make a thorough examination and be sure.

Nellie went into the elder Mr. Fallon's office and when Miss Jones went there to look for her she found her with her head on her folded arms crying as if her heart were broken.

"Why, Nellie!" she laid an arm about the girl, "don't cry so, dear Mr. Fallon is all right. It's the shock that made him unconscious for a few moments. The doctor says he isn't hurt" that after a rest he will be all right."

"They might have killed him," Nellie sobbed drying her eyes, and only controlling her sobs with an effort.

"But they didn't, so bathe your eyes and we'll get to work. The doctor is going to take him home."

When Nellie returned to the office they had gone. It was a very quiet, very sad-looking girl who helped Miss Jones that day. Pitying, knowing work the best thing for her, she kept Nellie even busier than usual until closing time. Just before they closed their desks she telephoned Mr. Fallon's home and inquired how he was. This she did more because of Nellie, them for any other reason, although she was genuinely attached to her employer. But she wanted the girl to know just how much need there was for her to be unhappy.

"You say he is better?" she asked the person who answered the call.

"This is his office asking."

Miss Jones repeated what had been said to Nellie. It was as the doctor had decided, shock, but no real injury otherwise. Mr. Fallon must rest a day or two.

"That means he will not be here tomorrow?" Nellie said.

"Probably not, for several days. We will have to run the office, so run along home and get a good night's sleep. I am going out tonight, so won't see you until morning."

Thankful to be alone, Nellie hurried home. She went immediately to her room, telling the maid she would not be down to dinner. She longed to be alone. Not only to Miss Jones had the incident of the afternoon been illuminating; it had brought sure knowledge to Nellie herself.

"I love him—I love him," she moaned as she flung herself on the bed. "I didn't mean to—but I couldn't help it—and I didn't know I was loving him until he was hurt—I didn't know!"

Realizing the hopelessness of her love, she wondered if she would have to leave the office; if she could bear to see him now?

"No one will know. I can't go where I won't see him!" she said. "I'll never let him—anyone know."
